PROPOSE HIGHWAY TO OPEN LARGE TERRITORY FOR DEVELOPMENT

Huge Subdivision Project to Depend Upon Action of County Authorities

By GIL A. COWAN

PROPERTY lying at the very gates of Glendale presenting the potential value of $20,000,000 may be opened up, subdivided and improved, provided the Los Angeles county board of supervisors see fit to build a direct highway between Glendale and Flintridge district of Pasadena.

This information was given Supervisor Prescott F. Cogswell and George W. Jones, county road commission, by Mayor Spencer Robinson, City Manager W. H. Reeves and Secretary James M. Rhoades of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce who comprised a party visiting the Alpine vistas northeast of this city.

It will take but $100,000 appropriation, it is estimated, to construct this scenic highway from the Flintridge skyline boulevard into Glendale and thereby shorten the distance from that vicinity into Glendale and Los Angeles by means of this highway approximately three miles.

Development of 800 acres will follow the construction of the road, the county officials were assured, and more than $1,000,000 will have to be spent in making this new wonderland adjacent to Glendale and Pasadena. Mr. Cogswell and visibly impressed by building an economical decomposed granite highway along grades varying between four and eight per cent.

Figures, which speak louder than words relative to the development, show that 800 acres will give what is equal to 4000 lots. Improved with buildings these will represent at least $5000 each, or a total of $20,000,000. Based on a 50 per cent valuation the taxable total would be $10,000,000.

At the present rate of taxation of $3.44, the Sycamore canyon territory would yield the county a possible revenue of $244,000 annually. It can confidently be said that the expenditure of $100,000 now by the supervisors would return double fold in the course of three years.

The aid of Supervisor Henry W. Wright already has been enlisted in this matter and former Senator Frank P. Flint, owner of Flintridge, contemplates using the new highway for fast passenger motor bus de luxe transportation service into Glendale to connect with the Pacific Electric line to Los Angeles. It would bring his tract within ten miles of Los Angeles by motor route.

Present indications are that the stocks by May will increase between 300,000,000 and 350,000,000 gallons, Hill said. On the other hand, he pointed out, the expected increase may be decreased by a falling off in refinery operations.

PYTHIANS STAGE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Musical Program and Social Presented by Members of Local Lodge

Knights of Pythias celebrated the fifty-ninth anniversary of the founding of their order with a social last night at Castle hall, 103 West Park avenue, which was attended by about 300 knights and ladies and their guests.

Pythians are always first on the job in cases of sickness and adversity, according to H. W. Aiton of Van Nuys, past chancellor commander of the State of Kansas. He called attention to the fact that the lodge is founded upon the principles of loyalty and true friendship.

The addresses of welcome were made by E. S. Melzer of 209 East Maple street, chancellor commander of the local lodge. He insisted that all present should have a good time.

Need of Pythianism

"The Need of Pythianism" was the subject of a short speech by Harley G. Preston of 312 West Colorado street, and Mrs. Ursella Joliffe of 512 South Louise street talked concerning Pythian Sisters.

Boy Scouts were given a place on the program, and a troop of them assisted in the presentation of the flag.

Robert Taylor of 336 West Park avenue, the first scout commander in Glendale, was a special guest of honor. Harold F. Benner, scout executive, and J. P. Pollard, field secretary, also made short talks on scouting.

"The American Legion" was the subject of a short speech by Chalmers Day, commander of Post 127.

The singing of "America" was led by O. W. Anderson of 360 Myrtle street, who later sang two tenor solos: "Dawning," by Cadman, and "Call Me Back, Pal O' Mine." He was accompanied by Mike Kaufman of Hollywood.

Two saxophone duets by Jackie Barton and Adeline Woodbury, "Swanee River Blues" and "Angie Blues," were much applauded. These little girls were great favorites during the evening.

Social Is Success

How a wife attempted to direct her husband's management of an automobile from the back seat was the subject of a humorous recitation by Mrs. George H. Pierce, who also interpreted a number of anecdotes.

Dancing, card playing and a general good time consumed the balance of the evening. Music was furnished by M. Kelly's Shrine Club Orchestra, consisting of Mr. Kelly, violin; Mike Kaufman, piano; Roy Donaldson, clarinet; Frazer, drums, and Jack Boettner, banjo.

The success of the social caused compliments to be showered upon committee in charge, which consisted of Atty. George H. King, E. S. Melzer and J. E. Edwards.

FILIBUSTER AGAIN STARTS AGAINST SHIP SUBSIDY

'Battalion of Death' Goes Into Third Day's Warm War of Words

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Enemies of the administration ship subsidy bill, predicting ultimate victory, today resumed their filibuster against its enactment in the senate after having drawn first blood in the opening battle.

The anti-subsidy "battalion of death" composed of Republican insurgents and Democrats, plunged into the third day of their filibuster with a renewed declaration they would "talk the bill to death."

In the opening round, the insurgents scored by forcing the administration leaders to abandon their plan for holding a continuous all-night session. Just before midnight Senator Jones, Republican of Washington, proposed a temporary truce to allow tired senators a little sleep.

Under senate rules Senator "Jim" Reed, Democrat of Missouri, who held the floor when the truce came, was entitled to resume his speech today. He announced he would again talk on the "international situation."

There was a possibility, however, the administration forces would reach an agreement during the day to vote on the Ladd motion substituting the "filled milk" bill for the subsidy. If the subsidy's opponents win the filibuster would end.

Administration forces, however, were still confident. Senator Jones declared there would be no deviation in his plan for forcing the senate into a record vote on the subsidy. He still predicted the administration would carry enough votes to write the bill on the statute books, of the nation.

From the ranks of the filibusters came a counter forecast of the victory. Apparently unwearied by their unceasing vigil over the subsidy, the filibusters, in jubilant mood, were back in full force when the senate convened at 11 o'clock—resolute in their determination to continue unabated.

Sentiment In United States Against Mingling In Europe, Asserts Charles M. Schwab

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
For International News Service
Copyright, 1923, International News Service.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Popular sentiment in the United States is opposed to mingling in European political affairs, it was declared here today by Charles M. Schwab, one of America's greatest manufacturing magnates and a close student of American opinion. Schwab said that, while Americans were willing to contribute money to relieve suffering abroad, they were disposed to let European nations work out their own problems.

"I believe, personally, that the interests of the world will be promoted by the United States taking an active interest in the solution of Europe's difficulties," said Schwab. "But popular sentiment, especially in the middle west, is not in favor of participating in European politics."

"If our money can help, then our people are willing to do what they can, but they are innately opposed to allying themselves in any political way with Europe. They are more disposed to let Europe work out her own salvation."

"Of course I have views regarding the Ruhr. But I am not a politician. I am not going to express them."

Schwab said that the American tariff was not affecting imports. Touching upon the Anglo-American debt settlement, he said it was the "greatest step ever taken for binding British and American relations."

Schwab said he did not believe that the other allied nations would be prepared to pay their debts to the United States during the present European troubles.

Asked about the proposed American ship subsidy which is now before congress, Schwab said he favored it. "It will not injure England," added the steel magnate.

Hope of Settlement

BERLIN, Feb. 21.—The first real hope for a settlement of the Ruhr crisis was aroused today by the revelation that foreign bankers have agreed to cooperate with the Reichsbank to guarantee the proposed loan of 200,000,000 gold marks.

An agreement has already been reached between the government and bankers for the loan. The loan is payable in three years and the subscriptions will be in dollars.

Opinion is gaining ground that German bankers and outside financiers would not undertake this obligation unless they believe a settlement is in sight by which Germany will be favored economically.

DAMAGED

GIVE CONTRACTOR PERMISSION TO REDUCE BOND

Trustees' Decision Follows Spirited Exchanges on Garbage Hauling

Considerable discussion followed the introduction of an amended contract submitted by City Attorney McNitt to the Board of Trustees of Eagle Rock at the last meeting, in reference to proposed change that would permit the person who had been awarded the contract for removing tin cans and rubbish from the city to qualify with a bond of $1500, after he had agreed to furnish a bond for the faithful performance of the contract in the sum of $3000.

Trustee Taylor immediately objected to reducing the bond on the ground that the city would not be amply protected. He said that L. Karatiana, who had been awarded a contract for the three year period, had agreed to furnish a bond for $3000 at the time he submitted his bid. Therefore, he could see no good reason why the bond should be reduced. Trustee Curtis agreed with Taylor that the amendment should not be made, and that Karatiana should live up to the original contract.

President Osborne and City Attorney McNitt argued for the contractor. Mr. McNitt stated that Karatiana had found that a surety company would charge him from $80 to $100 a year for a $2000 surety bond, and if the trustees insisted that this should be furnished, the contractor would be "busted" before he began.

The vote on the proposed amendment showed Osborne, Mattison and Bergvik voting yes, and Taylor and Curtis opposed.

'Man of Mystery' in Earl Remington Case

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—A man of mystery who was closely associated with Earl Remington, slain clubman, was brought into the investigation of the murder of Remington today when secret information regarded as the most important yet uncovered was obtained by Captain of Detectives Home.

Although the name and address of the man of mystery were learned by Home and the detectives working on the case, his association with Remington was so secretive that little is known of their relationship, which was evidently of a confidential nature.

While detectives were working zealously on the evidence concerning the man of mystery, it was disclosed today that one of the questions asked Mrs. "Peggy" Remington, the widow, when she was questioned for four hours by Home last night, concerned alleged discrepancies in her story as it has appeared in print.

The committee appointed to investigate the alleged activity of Frank Wight, building inspector of the Eagle Rock realty board that he was selling fire insurance while on duty at the city office, reported at the last meeting that, in the opinion of the committee, the realtors should be more specific in their charges.

The trusty board made a written complaint to the trustees two or three weeks ago. At the same meeting the resignation of Mr. Wight was tendered but not accepted.

The trustees adopted the report of the committee and will ask that the realty board enumerate particular instances in which Mr. Wight attempted to sell or did sell insurance while on duty. The subject is expected to come before the council at the next meeting.

LUXOR, Egypt, Feb. 21.—The mummy of Tut-Ankh-Amen may remain in his 3,000 year old tomb in the Valley of the Kings and not be placed in a museum to satisfy the eyes of a curious world, it was announced today.

Lord Carnarvon, head of the Egyptianologist explorers who uncovered the tomb, has been deeply moved by the protests from many parts of the world against disturbing the body of the ancient Pharaoh and especially against putting it upon public view.

It is understood that Lord Carnarvon is considering the advisability of reproducing the sarcophagus and its inner shrine when it will be closed.

CIVIC AFFAIRS IS REEVES' TOPIC IN ADDRESS

City Manager of Glendale Tells of Municipal Problems Today

W. H. Reeves, city manager of Glendale, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Sunrise Civic club at the West End school, Eagle Rock, Tuesday night, his subject being civic and municipal affairs.

In presenting the speaker, President Mattison of the club stated Mr. Reeves had been city manager of Pasadena for a number of years before he went to Glendale and was considered one of the best-informed men on the subject in the state.

Mr. Reeves gave an interesting address lasting an hour. He stressed several points in municipal affairs, the main one being that a community or city was no greater than the people who composed it. He said it was imperative that those at the head of municipal affairs should have the support of the citizens. Otherwise much that could be done in the way of public improvement would go by the board.

He said that several questions entered into the consideration of every subject brought before the council of any city, particularly in the way of improvement, one of the main ones being taxation, and another important matter that had to be considered, was the political aspect of the case. He said it was necessary that the rank and file should have a clear understanding of the subject and see the need, or otherwise the project was doomed. People nowadays are demanding service, they must be shown, or otherwise they refuse to support a good measure.

Eagle Rock's Needs

The speaker touched in a general way only on the commission form of government, his talk being more along the lines of what was needed and expected in a community such as Eagle Rock. He said Glendale was anxious to cooperate with Eagle Rock, and mentioned the fact that Glendale had amended an ordinance in order to allow this city's tin cans to be hauled through Glendale's busy streets, merely to illustrate the good feeling existing.

Capt. Reeves injected many witty remarks into his talk and kept the crowd in a good humor. He intimated that he was a classmate of Mayor Sherrill B. Osborne, at Stanford.

Mr. Reeves said the world was full of experts who could tell you how things could not be done. Referring to city affairs, "My chief life work," he said, "is to find the man who can tell how it can be done." He mentioned the name of a prominent engineer, who had recently visited Glendale, in this connection, but retired gracefully after Mayor Osborne had "called him" on the remark. He said this was stated merely as an illustration.

Good Program Given

A. M. Powell gave a ten-minute talk on the Boy Scout movement. He urged the organization of several troops in Eagle Rock and said the West End should see that a scout troop was organized at once.

Mrs. Mabel Runge and Samuel Ratliff each responded to an encore after singing a solo. Mrs. A. R. Rose accompanied each.

A mandolin and guitar duet by the Thompson brothers was well received, the young men coming back in response to applause.

President Mattison welcomed the guests in a very pleasing manner, and introduced Sherrill B. Osborne, president of the West End Improvement association, who made a five-minute talk.

Following the program the ladies of the club were hostesses at a fine luncheon, a general good time and get-acquainted meeting followed.

BRANCH BANK TAX OPINION ASKED BY TRUSTEES

City Attorney McNitt Asked to Advise Council on City's Rights

City Attorney McNitt is to render an opinion at the next meeting of the Board of Trustees of Eagle Rock as to whether or not, in his opinion, the city has a legal right to collect an annual tax from the Security Trust & Savings bank of Eagle Rock. This is a branch of the Los Angeles institution, and heretofore has paid a business tax, as have other business institutions of the city.

The subject was introduced by Trustee Bergsvik, an employee of the company, who is connected with the banking concern in Los Angeles. Mr. Bergsvik was of the opinion that the city would find the tax was unconstitutional.

After the matter was discussed at some length, it was decided to get an opinion from the city legal adviser.

GRATITUDE TOLD BY GRANDMOTHER

Generous Response to Plea
For Assistance Brings
Thankful Letter

Some days ago the needs of a grandmother and her four grandchildren were brought home to the hearts of Glendaleans by the Glendale Evening News and in response the home of the little family was almost completely furnished and other aid given.

This morning a note of gratefulness was received at the Evening News office from the grandmother, who came all the way from the east to care for her four motherless grand-daughters. She writes:

"To all the kind friends who have so generously helped us in this time of need, we offer our deepest gratitude."

"We believe that fairies indeed dwell in Glendale, for our needs are being so well supplied."

"Often the things we need come almost before we realize we need them. May God richly bless each one who has helped us, is the prayer of a grateful grandmother and four little children."

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Have You Aided Scouts?
Action! And More Action!
King Tut Lures Tourists
But Is It Really Tut?

By Gil A. Cowan

TODAY sees a climax in the campaign for funds to finance the Boy Scouts. In the first week only $5000 was obtained. The goal is $11,000. With the allowance of $2000 from Burbank, $1000 from Eagle Rock and $500 from Tujunga it means that Glendale must give $2500 in one day. If you have not been solicited by the Big Scouts, telephone A. R. Eastman of the Glendale State bank, or R. L. Kent of the R. L. Kent Company, and tell them what you will do. No editorial discussion of the Scouts' worthiness need be made.

Every reader of The Glendale Evening News knows what is to be done. If you can give only $1, get it in the total today. If it is $5, all the better. But give something—AND DO IT NOW!

"Action" should be the slogan of every American, be he interested in Boy Scout drives, mercantile business or farming.

"Action" has made the daily newspapers of this country marvelously efficient.

"Action" has made motion pictures vivify events in a wonderful way.

Just to illustrate, the difference between American and British psychology may be seen in the action displayed in their film plays.

While Peter B. Kyne truthfully says it is impossible to get along with the money grabbing film makers, we can see no reason why they should sacrifice action to the ideas of Mr. Kyne or any other writer.

There is exactly where business and brains part company. Every author knows what he would like to write, but Rupert Hughes knows what the public wants and writes accordingly.

Incidentally, Mr. Hughes is still on the job making pictures.

One of the latest forms of promotion coming to our attention is that of Imperial Date Gardens being marketed in Long Beach.

When you want to sell anything, go to Long Beach. If they don't buy it there, it can be sold nowhere.

Having visited several Imperial valley date gardens and knowing the owners of several Cucamonga valley date orchards, if they can be called that, it must be confessed that dates are a real desert industry.

Just about the time the whole world was ready to receive King "Tut," the Egyptologists decide weather conditions make it mandatory his tomb be sealed.

So we will have to wait six months or more before getting to the inner chambers of the old boy's tomb. That's somewhat disappointing, eh?

At second thought, however, tourist travel to Luxor, Egypt, as well as the curio business there, should continue good.

And with this discussion of King "Tut," an International News Service dispatch from Paris says that Professor Beneditte, curator of the Luxembourg museum, and one of the foremost Egyptologists in France, declared his belief that Lord Carnarvon's discovery near Luxor is not the authentic tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen, but a temporary refuge, where the mummy was secreted by friends to prevent the ancient Pharaoh's bitter enemy and usurper, King Armais, from finding and despoiling the grave.

Professor Beneditte's opinion was supported by another famous Egyptologist, Professor Georges Reneple, curator of the Egyptian department of the Louvre museum.

The explorer, Dr. Davis, in 1912 found King Armais' tomb but the wall decorations and inscriptions on the sarcophagus were proved to have been intended originally for Tut-Ankh-Amen," said Professor Beneditte. "We do not know who removed Tut-Ankh-Amen's body and installed the mummy of Armais."

"The brilliant splendors found near Luxor, it must be remembered, consisted of portable objects, such as jewels, marvelously wrought, furniture, art works, and so on, which could easily be carried. There is an evident discrepancy between the richness of the objects and the poorness of the mural decorations in this tomb in the Valley of Kings."

There are two other hypotheses: Tut-Ankh-Amen's mummy may have been removed from the tomb by Armais; or Tut-Ankh-Amen's body may have been placed in the cave-like cavity where it was found, while his real tomb was being built, and later forgotten."

CHARACTER SNOBS

It is a fine thing to be wise and clever.

It is a splendid thing to be unusually anxious to do the right thing and the square thing.

But there is one weakness which sometimes assails the people who excel in brains or character.

They become so conscious of their excellence that they overestimate the space between themselves and the rest of the world.

In other words, they become character snobs or brain snobs.

Of course they do not out and out assert their own superiority. But they say or do little things that, quite unbeknown to them, show how low an estimate they place upon some other person's brains or character.

I once knew a woman whose lack of sense of humor made her especially weak in this respect. Sometimes I would say to her in jest something that if I had really meant it would prove that I was either an absolute fool or utterly lacking in any ethical sense. And she would take me in deadly earnest. Plainly, she did not find it hard to think either of these things about me. (Lest you think that there may have been justification for that I will assure you that she was the same with other people, but naturally I minded the wound to my own vanity the most.)

Of course, she could not help not having a sense of humor, but if she had judged other people by herself, instead of placing herself in a class apart, she would have known that we must be jesting.

Again, during the war a man who has done a great deal more for our cause than most men, who lived simply, gave all his leisure to Red Cross and such work, and thought of little else, spoiled some of the value of his example by the way in which he made himself a judge of what other people were doing.

Of course, he was so heart and soul in the war that he could not help being enraged by the indifference of many people. But some of the things he did were unequalled for as well as untactful. I remember hearing a very conscientious young person whom he knew but slightly ask him the regulations about butter. He told them and then added: "I don't suppose you have anything more than an academic interest in them." I think that girl was just as anxious to do the right thing as he. But he, without knowing anything about it, assumed she couldn't possibly be.

Do Judge by Yourself

There is an old saying: "Don't judge others by yourself," which we used to hurl in childhood as an answering taunt when anyone had accused us of something mean or disagreeable.

It's bad advice for such people as these I am describing. Do judge others by yourself because they probably are not so very different. Maybe they are not quite so clever or good, but give them credit for, at least, half the intelligence and ethics you possess.

DRAPERY AID TO BEAUTIFUL HOME

Glendale Merchant Devotes Special Attention to House Decorating

Beautification of Glendale homes is the desire that has inspired George E. Williams of the Williams Dry Goods store at 103 North Brand boulevard to develop the drapery department of his business.

Mr. Williams has had extensive experience in the drapery and home decorating business and, with a varied stock and fine equipment at his command, he is prepared to cater to all business beautification plans of Glendaleans.

Prior to opening his store in Glendale, Mr. Williams was associated with the two largest furniture stores in Los Angeles, working in the carpet and drapery departments.

In his local store he carries an exceptionally well selected and varied line of drapery and curtain goods at all prices with new shipments arriving regularly.

Help Householders.

In addition to offering this stock for the consideration of patrons, Mr. Williams will call at the home and take the responsibility of measuring all windows and doors and figuring just how much material is required. His experience has qualified him for all these duties, as well as solving problems relating to color schemes or the arrangement and style of drapes. All of these services are free of charge.

If the patron so desires he can have his curtains made up at a very nominal price, for, contrary to the usual custom, the price of this service is only just enough to cover the labor cost with no margin for profit.

"In these days of better homes," says Mr. Williams, "we are all making a conscientious effort to make our own home a pleasure to live in. I am interested in better homes and enjoy working to make homes better. I would much rather sell you something that will make your home charming and attractive than that which would make your home look uninviting and ordinary."

Taste Is Needed
"It is not necessarily the price you pay that determines whether the result is just right or just wrong. Many people spend a sum sufficient to produce the most pleasing effects and are often disappointed, while the same amount of money plus good judgment could have worked wonders."

"How much, then, we could do with judgment plus experience. So here's to better service and better homes, and now that the former is at your command, what is to prevent your having the latter?"

BEAUTY CHATS

CHOOSING GOOD CORSETS

Do you really need corsets? Most women don't. My belief is that most women put on corsets not to mould or support the figure, not to improve its shape, but simply because the shops offer them and other people wear them. Proof of this is that they generally buy any style that pleases their fancy or their purses, with little thought as to whether it is feminine figure is the variety and delicacy of its curves, in short its individuality. When a shame-shouldered, flat and boyish figure and give it a small waist and round hips merely because a pair of corsets forces it into such a shape. What a pity to take the suppleness out of any figure and give it the stiffness and rigid curves of a well-filled pair of corsets. What a pity to take away the elasticity of any figure by putting the waist and hip muscles in prison, which is what corseting does.

In short, what a pity to wear corsets! There are, however, exceptions. If you are fat you had better compress the fleshy curves into a semblance of even stiff youthfulness, but you had best, of course, reduce. If you are old and inelastic you will sacrifice little and you may gain better lines by corseting the figure. But in any case your corsets should be lightly boned, well made and as expensive as you can afford.

A Stenographer.—No doubt you can sedentary occupation is causing you to take on all this extra weight. To keep yourself down to normal you will have to take some intensive exercising each day and eat less of the fattening foods. A Turkish bath once each month will help some.

Conda.—Deep breathing will help you develop your chest. All the exercises you mention will build up the muscles of the arms and shoulders, besides those of the chest and back. Increase your weight by drinking plenty of milk and taking as much olive oil with your meals as you can or use a generous amount of butter.

Tomorrow—Young Mothers' Hints.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. If a stamped and self-addressed envelope inclosed with the question.—The Editor.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.
Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

My dear Followers:
The following rules of the column will have to be followed in asking for discussions and for material which we offer. Otherwise your letters cannot be given attention.

First: When you ask for material which we have offered, you must enclose a self-addressed and stamped envelope (s. a. s. e.). The address must include your full name, city or town, state and street number. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must also enclose four cents in loose stamps. Do not send money—it is too easily lost in the mails.

Second: Write legibly with pen or typewriter and not more than 200 words. If your handwriting is not clear get someone to write for you.

Third: When you ask for material to be sent, have your s. a. s. e., at least a full sized envelope. It is very difficult to stuff a whole pamphlet into a baby envelope.

Fourth: Address your letters to me in care of your paper. They will be forwarded to me at my office in New York City.

Fifth: Please sign your name as evidence of good faith. We promise that we shall not use it in any way.

Sixth: Do not ask for material to be sent you unless it is something we have offered to send to quitters. You may, however, ask me to write on any subject of general interest which I have not covered, and I will be glad to do so as soon as possible.

Seventh: Do not ask for diagnoses or for individual treatment. I could not safely give you these even if I had the time. This is the province of your personal physician.

Eighth: Allow at least three weeks to elapse before thinking your request for material has gone astray or is ignored. And allow very much longer than that for an answer to appear in the column, if it can appear there.

Ninth: Watch my answers to correspondents and articles each day for something similar to the question you want discussed, and consider yourself answered when you see that, whether your initials are appended or not. Many people ask the same question and I must answer them altogether to save time and space.

Tenth: Unless all of the first seven rules are complied with your letter cannot receive any attention. I dislike to have to put all of these restrictions on you, but unless you do follow them it is going to be impossible for us to handle our mail.

If you will remember that my "Diet and Health" is a syndicated feature, appearing all over the United States and Canada and in every section of the country creating great interest, you will realize the extent of my mail. I want to be able to read all of your letters. They are an inspiration and a help to me, but I shall not be able to do it unless you follow these rules because of the tremendous number of them.

You may never see your answer unless you give initials for in the column I can answer very few and I try to choose those letters by the answering of which I can help the largest number. Probably 90 per cent of our letters have to do with the question of reducing so, naturally, that subject being of the greatest interest—and, incidentally, of the greatest general importance—there will be a great deal on that subject always.

You will find I have to repeat my advice very often. But it is by repetition that we learn, so that is desirable. I shall prepare many of my articles so that you can get them again by sending the s. a. s. e. and following the other directions. But, as I have written on a subject and have offered to send it to you, it will not be available for distribution.

Please remember that I cannot take the place of your family physician. I cannot make diagnoses for you, nor treat you personally, nor write individual diets. I appreciate very much the wonderful confidence you are showing in me, but if you think for a moment you can realize that diagnosis and personal treatment would be impossible. I can only take up in the column questions that will be of general interest to all my readers.

I feel like adding a tenth rule. It is this: Save some of your 200 words to continue telling me how much you enjoy the column and how much help you are getting from it. For that is an inspiration to me and, of course, makes my work happier.

I shall probably have to run this article just as it is once a month at least to keep the newcomers in column order and probably to remind you, too, though I hope you will help me and listen my reply to you by remembering to observe our rules.

PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

The announced intention of the University of Cincinnati to stage a night football game next fall against Kentucky Wesleyan on September 29 is for the specific purpose of getting publicity for the college and for the game. The athletic management admits that it expects the novelty of the affair to give it much comment in the newspapers with the result that there will be a big game.

There has been much said and written recently about the commercializing of the college game of football and this particular news is not going to meet with any distinct approval among those who have been prominent in advocating more of the sport for sport's sake spirit.

The chances are that, for a game or two such an innovation might draw fair crowds out for the novel experience, but it does not seem likely that it ever would live through more than a few attempts. In the first place, the environment of night is totally foreign to football. The bright sunlight, the cool, crisp air, the blue skies all go to put the ginger and life into a football contest.

All of this will be lacking at night. The spectators will sit through cold hours amid the cold flare of lamps that will, to a certain extent light up the field but leave them in pitchy darkness. None of the color that makes for a spectacle will be there. It all will be enveloped in gloom.

As far as the playing field is concerned, it probably will be found that artificial lights are a far cry from the light furnished by nature. Bright are lights are prone to cast heavy, black shadows, and it is likely that both sides will find it a difficult matter to follow the course of the ball. It is likely to be a superinducer of fumbling, and when one considers the amount of fumbling that can be done by teams in ordinary daylight, it makes the average football fan shudder to think what might be the result under the strain of bright spots of artificial lights.

For, no matter how many lights there will be pockets where the beams do not enter and a particularly high punt, for instance, is likely, momentarily to hide the ball from the view of the players.

The writer of this article has played at night in Madison Square Garden, New York, and knows something about the conditions that exist. The lighting of an open field manifestly will be a more difficult problem than an enclosed auditorium.

It will be interesting to note the comments of both players and spectators after a few of these night games. We predict there will not be any enthusiasm for them.

Coast League Players Start Training Work

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21.—Real work started today in most of the Pacific Coast league training camps, according to reports received here.

At Boyes Springs particular attention was being paid to the rookies, Flanagan at short showing up brightly. Jimmy O'Connell is there conditioning before reporting to the Giants.

At San Jose, where the Seattle's are training, Harry Wolverton and 21 recruits going through their paces. Regulars will arrive next week.

At Myrtlebeale Manager Howard gave his men some road work and a stiff workout. Wright, a six-foot pitching recruit, is attracting notice.

Down south at Elsinore, Manager Killifer was giving 23 recruits a close inspection preparatory to turning all but eight loose by the end of the week.

Preparations were complete at Fresno and Hanford for the reception of the Salt Lake and Portland contingents.

Strangler Wins From Londos in Fast Bout

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 21.—Although losing one fall, Ed "Strangler" Lewis retained his title in his match with Jimmy Londos, light heavyweight wrestling champion, here last night. Lewis won the first fall with his famous headlock, but the jitu jitsu artist clamped on an arm bar to which the champion was forced to submit for the second. The champion took the third fall from his lighter opponent in short time, using a hammer lock.

AT NEW ORLEANS—Basil Gallano, New Orleans, and Johnny Dundee, New York, fought 15 rounds to a draw.

German Purchases of American Grain Grow

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—While France sits grimly in the Ruhr, Germany is turning to America for food.

Increasing purchases of American grain have been noted since France invaded industrial Germany, the department of commerce announced today. Since January 1, Germany has bought 1,897,000 bushels of American corn. Her corn buying last week totaled 277,000 bushels.

Wheat purchases are also on the upgrade. Since January 1 Germany has bought 2,843,000 bushels of wheat, 536,000 going forward last week.

Deny Anglo-American Intervention Plans

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Premier A. This was taken as official confirmation that Great Britain has no intention of trying to bring about Anglo-American intervention.

Shows Inequality in Division of Districts

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—Calling attention to glaring discrepancies in the apportionment of assessment equalization districts, both as to population and assessed valuation, Ed W. Hopkins, county assessor, believes the legislature should take some steps to remedy the situation.

The fourth district, in which Los Angeles is situated, comprises all the territory in the state south of San Francisco, and has a much larger population and nearly as great an assessed valuation as the other three districts combined.

Electric Iron Starts Fire in Woman's Shop

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—Fire, caused by a red hot electric iron which stood all night on an ironing board in the rear of the Endeavour specialty shop, in the downtown district, early today damaged a $25,000 stock of exclusive hats and gowns, and for a time threatened the destruction of the entire shop.

At least four world boxing champions are likely to be dethroned this year. In each case there are grave doubts as to whether the holder of the title is good enough to hold off the dozen and one aspirants for the respective crowns. Johnny Wilson, middleweight titleholder, has been more or less in disgrace for more than a year and has not fought. There are at least four men capable of beating Wilson. Joe Lynch, holder of the bantam title, is holding down a very shaky "crown" and there are several Shamans likely to knock his title crown off his head this year. Then the veteran titleholder Johnny Kilbane, who has held the feather title so long that many present-day fight fans don't know whom he won it from, is not the Kilbane of old and likely to succumb to the first good boy he gets in the ring with. The fourth champion is Mickey Walker, who holds the welterweight title. Mickey took it away from the veteran Britton, but now there is Dave Sharns likely to knock it off the pair ever hook up, it is almost sure there will be a new champion.

Who is Ty Cobb. Who is Frank Truett. Every boy in the land can answer the first question, yet a very great many boys and adults cannot answer the second, and yet—what Ty Cobb is to baseball, what Jack Dempsey is to boxing, what Charles Paddock is to sprinting, what Jole Ray is to distance running, what Willie Hoppe is to billiards, what Bill Tilden is to tennis, what Gene Sarazen is to golf, what Johnny Weissmuller is to swimming, so is Frank Truett to trapezoidal. The greatest of them all.

Several men in both the American and National leagues have accepted twenty-two chances in one game. Several years ago Walter Holke, in a twenty-six inning game between Boston and Brooklyn, accepted no less than forty-four chances. This is unquestionably the greatest number of chances any man has ever handled. It is a unique record and will probably stand a great many years more.

Christy Mathewson Secures Part Ownership of Boston Braves

BOSTON, Feb. 21.—Boston baseball was jubilant today when it woke up to find the veteran Christy Mathewson president and part owner of the Braves. Judge Emil E. Fuchs and James Macconough, a banker, both of New York, are the other two owners of the club. Only 25 per cent of the stock in the club is held in Boston.

While no announcement has been made of the price paid George Washington Grant, it is generally believed to be $350,000, over and above the lease on the Braves' field property.

Fred Mitchell, it is stated, will continue as manager and Eddie Riley as secretary or business manager.

"The Braves will not finish in the cellar this year," Matty declared, in announcing that he was soon to put through some deals that would greatly strengthen the club. The trade will not be with New York, he said.

Mathewson predicted strengthening of public support for the Braves.

Envoy's Liquor Stock Remains Dark Secret

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The amount of liquor consumed by the ordinary Washington diplomat will remain a deep, dark secret. Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon probably will refuse the request from congress to divulge the amount of liquor shipped in to various embassies and legations since the advent of prohibition, it was said.

Mellon has appealed to the state department for advice as to how to proceed. The state department declined to consider that the publication of such information would be "discourteous." Already, it is said, several members of the diplomatic corps have intimated they would resent such action by the government.

Scores Plan to Give Muscle Shoals to Ford

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—"Acceptance by congress of the Henry Ford offer for Muscle Shoals would give away the birthright of hundreds of millions for the enrichment of private corporations at the expense of taxpayers of America," Senator Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, charged in a letter to the Nebraska state legislature.

Furthermore, Norris declared, "acceptance would give control of the development of hydro-electric energy from our navigable streams over entirely to a corporation of wealth without retaining any control or regulation for the benefit of the people."

Marshall Neilan's latest photoplay, "The Strangers' Banquet," showing today at the Glendale Theatre for the last times is from the popular Donn Byrne novel of the same name.

The fine cast includes Hobart Bosworth, Claire Windsor, Nigel Barrie, Rockliffe Fellows, Stuart Holmes, Dagmar Godowsky, Eugenie Besserer, Thomas Holding and many other well known and capable actors and actresses.

The gripping story, the splendid direction, the superior cast, setting, photography and editing, make this one of the really big, outstanding films of the year.

Lions are no longer found in China.

"If you haven't seen 'The Hot-tentot,' now on its last legs at the T. D. & L. Theatre, be there tonight," is the tip from the management. A man, a maid and a horse are the winning trio.

Douglas MacLean, Madge Bellamy and Raymond Hatton share honors for comedy and pathos, although the latter is scarce. If you enjoy poor health or a mean disposition, don't see "The Hot-tentot," because you'll laugh yourself out of your favorite hobby.

Bobby Vernon, in "Parson My Glove," puts a punch in the program and some knockout comedy.

George Melford's "Java Head," from Hergesheimer's great book, opens at the T. D. & L. Theatre Thursday for a three-day run.

The MUCKER

by Edgar Rice Burroughs

Barbara Harding ran forward to assist her champion but as the men rolled and tumbled over the ground she could find no opening for a blow that might not endanger Billy Byrne quite as much as it endangered his antagonist; but presently she discovered that the American required no assistance. She saw the Indian's head bending slowly forward beneath this resistless force of the other's huge muscles, she heard the crack that announced the parting of the vertebrae and saw the limp things which had but a moment before been a man, pulsing with life and vigor, roll helplessly aside—a harmless and inanimate lump of clay.

Billy Byrne leaped to his feet, shaking himself as a great mastiff might whose coat had been ruffled in a fight.

"Come!" he whispered. "We gotta beat it now for sure. That guy's shot'll lead 'em right down to us," and once more they took up their flight down toward the valley, along an unknown trail through the darkness of the night.

For the most part they moved in silence, Billy holding the girl's arm or hand to steady her over the rough and dangerous portions of the path. And as they went there grew in Billy's breast a love so deep and so resistless that he found himself wondering that he had ever imagined that his former passion for this girl was love.

This new thing surged through him and over him with all the blind, brutal, compelling force of a mighty tidal wave. It battered down and swept away the frail barriers of his new-found gentleness. Again he was the Mucker—hating the artificial wall of social caste which separated him from this girl; but now he was ready to climb the wall, or better still, to batter it down with his huge fists. But the time was not yet—first he must get Barbara to a place of safety. On and on they went. The night grew old. Far ahead there sounded the occasional pop of a rifle. Billy wondered what it could mean and as they approached the ranch and he discovered that it came from that direction he hastened their steps to even greater speed than before. "Somebody's shootin' up the ranch," he volunteered. "Wonder who it could be."

"Suppose it is your friend and general?" asked the girl.

Billy made no reply. They reached the river and as Billy knew not where the ford lay he plunged in at the point at which the water first barred their progress and dragging the girl after him, plowed bull-like for the opposite shore. Where the water was above his depth he swam while Barbara clung to his shoulders. They thus made the passage quickly and safely.

Billy stopped long enough to shake the water out of his carbine which the girl had carried across, and then forged ahead toward the ranchhouse from which the sounds of battle came now in increased volume.

And at the ranchhouse "hell was popping." The moment Bridge realized that some of the attackers had reached the veranda he called the surviving Mexican and the Chinaman to follow him to the lower floor where they might stand a better chance to repel his new attack. Mr. Harding he persuaded to remain upstairs.

Outside a dozen men were battering to force an entrance. Already one panel had splintered, and as Bridge entered the room he could see the figures of the bandits made through the hole they had made. Raising his rifle he fired through the aperture. There was a scream as one of the attackers dropped; but the others only increased their efforts, their oaths, and their threats of vengeance.

The three defenders poured a few rounds through the sagging door, then Bridge noted that the Chinaman ceased firing.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

"Allee gone," replied Sing, pointing to his ammunition belt.

At the same instant the Mexican threw down his carbine and rushed for a window on the opposite side of the room. His ammunition was exhausted and with it had departed his courage. Flight seemed the only course remaining. Bridge made no effort to stop him. He would have been glad to fly, but he could not leave Anthony Harding, and he was sure that the older man would prove unequal to any sustained flight on foot.

"You better go, too, Sing," he said to the Chinaman, placing another bullet through the door; "there's nothing more that you can do, and it may be that they are all on this side now—I think they are. You fellows have fought splendidly. Wish I could give you something more substantial than thanks, but that's all I have now and shortly Pestia won't even leave me that much."

"Allee light," replied Sing cheerfully, and a second later he was clambering through the window in the wake of the loyal Mexican.

And then the door crashed in and a half dozen troopers followed by Pestia himself burst in the room.

Bridge was standing at the foot of the stairs, his carbine clutched, for he had just spent his last bullet. He knew that he must die; but he was determined to make them purchase his life as dearly as he could, and to die in defense of Anthony Harding, the father of the girl he loved, even though hopelessly.

Pestia saw from the American's attitude that he had no more ammunition. He struck up the carbine of the trooper who was about to shoot Bridge down.

"Wait!" commanded the bandit. "Cease firing! His ammunition is gone. Will you surrender?" he asked of Bridge.

"Not until I have beaten from the heads of one or two of your friends," he replied, "that which their egotism leads them to imagine are brains. No, if you take me alive, Pestia, you will have to kill me to do it."

Pestia shrugged. "Very well," he said, indifferently, "it makes little difference to me—that stairway is as good as a wall. These brave defenders of the liberty of poor, bleeding Mexico will make an excellent firing squad. Attention, my children! Ready! Aim."

In the ghastly light of the early dawn the sallow complexions of the Mexicans took on a weird hue. The American made a slight shudder shook his slender frame, and then he squared his shoulders and looked Pestia smilingly in the face.

The figure of a man appeared at the window through which the Chinaman and the loyal Mexican had escaped. Quick eyes took in the scene within the room.

"Hey!" he yelled. "Cut the rough stuff!" and leaped into the room.

Pestia, surprised at the intrusion before he had given the command to fire. A smile lit his features when he saw who it was.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, "my dear Captain Byrne. Just in time to see a traitor and a spy pay the penalty for his crimes."

"Nothing doing," growled Billy Byrne, and then he threw his carbine to his shoulder and took careful aim at Pestia's face.

TODAY—Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, on the occasion of her announced engagement to the Duke of York, smashed a few traditions when she freely granted interviews to newspapermen, writes David M. Church, of the London Bureau.

TOMORROW—Kansas City, Kan., has its first "debutante bank director," writes Kenneth Harris, correspondent in that city.

LONDON, Feb. 21.—English nobility held its breath and gave every evidence of wanting to gasp and appear shocked when Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon, betrothed to the Duke of York, actually permitted herself to be interviewed by newspapermen.

Lady Elizabeth smashed a few traditions and did it with an air of abandon that will endear her to the hearts of English newspapermen forever.

"Bertie," said Lady Elizabeth, referring to the Duke, "isn't here today. He's out hunting. Some reporter smiled and she interjected: 'Well, everybody calls him Prince Bertie, you know.' In this vein she chatted on with the reporters, who had a thoroughly enjoyable time, for it is only on the rarest of rare occasions that a possible future queen of England consents to be interviewed.

The occasion of the announcement of the engagement of the Duke of York and Lady Elizabeth was a sort of "interviewing festival" for the English press. Interviews came thick and fast, something that is most unusual in English newspaper circles. The Earl of Strathmore, father of the future Duchess of York, was future pruning trees in his garden. He submitted to interviews and posed with the pruning hook. The brothers and sisters of the fiancée of the Duke were interviewed and all English knew the views of the fiancée's family.

Nobility wanted to be shocked, but it's pretty hard to display annoyance with a girl who one day may be Queen.

No matter what nobility may think of the interviews, it is certain that all English newspapermen are for Lady Elizabeth. They say she is "a peach."

London takes its "Covent Garden" seriously. "Covent Garden" has for years been the home of English opera. Now it has been turned into a theatre, producing American burlesque of the Jean Bodini school, and London doesn't know just what to do about it. George Robey, an English comedian, was engaged to star, and when it was reported that he intended to burlesque "Lohengrin" in this sacred home of opera.

By RALPH BROWN, RADIO ENGINEER

RHEOSTAT

This particular rheostat is a convenient, practical instrument for experimental service or for permanent installations. It is made in two types, 214A for bank of panel mounting and 214B for front of panel mounting and portable use. The illustration shows the back of panel type. In this type when mounted only the knob and pointer project through the panel. The shaft may be adjusted for any thickness of panel up to 3/4 inch. Ruggedness of construction and smoothness of operation make this rheostat especially adapted for laboratory and radio use. There is no grating or clicking of the contact arm.

This rheostat is made for three general classes of service. The first type is for the regulation of receiving tube filament currents. This rheostat has a resistance of 7 ohms and a current carrying capacity of 1.5 amperes. The second type is for the regulation of filament currents of 5 watt transmitting tubes. This rheostat has a resistance of 2 ohms and a carrying capacity of 2.5 amperes. It is sufficient for the regulation of a radiotron UV202 tube on as high as a 12 volt source.

The third type of rheostat is the high resistance type. It is carried in stock in resistance of 80 and 400 ohms with current carrying capacities of 0.3 and 0.1 amperes, respectively. When equipped with a third binding post with connection to the switch blade, this rheostat makes a very excellent variable resistor for grids of detector tubes and for other purposes.

CRYSTAL DETECTORS

Probably the three most widely used crystals are galena, silicon and iron pyrites. Sensitive specimens of iron pyrites are more difficult to find than sensitive galena, but they usually retain their sensitivity for a longer period than galena. These sensitive pyrites detectors are often sold under the trade name of "Perikon." The detector sold under the name of "Perikon" consists of a boronite point in contact with a mass of zincite.

The illustration shows a typical crystal detector. This particular sample being silicon with an antimony contact point. Another excellent crystal is cerussite and is sold under that name.

In order to make use of the second property a local or "booster" battery is inserted in series with the crystal. Generally a small battery of 2 to 4 volts, controlled by a potentiometer is employed.

Uncle Wiggily Bedtime Stories

— BY HOWARD R. GARIS —

UNCLE WIGGILY'S VALENTINE

The Fuzzy Fox called at the den of the Woolly Wolf.

"Do you know what day this is?" asked the Fox, as, with his tail, he brushed some dried leaves off a stump inside the cave and sat down. A stump was the only chair the Wolf owned.

"Why, this is Wednesday," growled the Wolf. "That's an easy riddle. Ask me another."

"I'm not asking riddles," said the Fox. "It is true this is Wednesday, but it is also Valentine Day."

"Ea! Ha!" hoarsely laughed the Wolf. "Little that matters to us. No one is going to send me a valentine, nor you, either."

"I didn't mean that," snickered the Fox. "But you and I are going to send Uncle Wiggily a valentine, eh?"

"Send Uncle Wiggily a valentine? I think I see myself!" snarled the Wolf. "After the way he has fooled us all the year—getting away just when we were going to nibble his ears—send him a valentine? I guess not. Why, how silly we'd look sending him a paper covered with rosebuds and lace and a verse reading: 'Carrots are yellow, and so are you.'"

We wish we had your ears to understand!" chuckled the Fox. "I mean we'll play a trick on Uncle Wiggily. We'll send him a trick valentine and by doing that we can catch him and nibble his ears."

"How?" asked the Wolf eagerly.

"This way," said the Fox. "I have in my cave an old spring trap that I was once nearly caught in. We'll take this trap, set it open and put it on Uncle Wiggily's stoop. We'll cover the trap with some green branches from a pine tree. Then we'll ring the bell and run away."

"Oh, I see what you mean," growled the Wolf. "Uncle Wiggily will think it's a valentine, he'll open the door and pick up the green branch and—"

"Yes, and then he'll be caught by his paw in the trap and we can rush up and nibble his ears. Then we'll have a valentine!" laughed the Fox.

"Come on, we'll do it!" snickered the Wolf.

They got the trap and that night, when the boys and girls of animal land were sending each other pretty valentines, and some funny ones, the Fox and Wolf slipped up and put the trap on Uncle Wiggily's front stoop.

The big animals covered the trap with green branches, they rang the bell and hid in the bushes to wait for the bunny to be caught by the cruel valentine.

Harding Abstains From Intervention in Ruhr

Delay Action on Plan To Bar Foreign Ships

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Pending disposition of the ship subsidy bill by congress and completion of a detailed investigation now under way, no action will be taken on the proposal to exclude all foreign ships from trade between the United States and the Philippines and from the Philippines' coastal trade, it was officially stated at the White House.

While the president has ample authority to order inclusion of this trade under American maritime laws, no action is desirable, it was said, until the proposition has been fully looked into from every angle.

The practicability of such an order, as urged by the shipping board and American shipping interests, is being investigated by the bureau of insular affairs of the war department.

CAKE CONTEST IS P-T. ATTRACTION

Fifteen Prizes to Be Given, With Fine Acorn Range As First One

The art of cake making and baking is to be one of the big features at the Parent-Teacher federation bazaar Friday afternoon and night in the cafeteria of the Glendale Union high school.

Of course there are going to be countless other attractions, but the cake booth and contest being arranged by the Wilson Avenue P-T. A. is proving the big drawing card. For the best cake makers a collection of fifteen prizes has been assembled with a fine Acorn gas range as the first prize and a $20 hat as second. The other prizes are of proportionate value.

Every woman in Glendale is privileged to enter the contest, the only requirements being that she register at the Wilson-Bell Hardware company, 227 North Brand boulevard, or at 1738 South San Fernando road, and that she follow the prescribed recipes.

Upon registration she will receive a coupon and when her cake is entered it will be judged by a number and not by her name.

Here Are Recipes

The two recipes to follow are: One cup sugar, one-half cup of Snow Drift, one cup sour milk, cream or buttermilk, one teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon baking powder, one teaspoon vanilla.

Three eggs, two cups flour, two squares chocolate. Melt chocolate, add three tablespoons water and cook until thick. Cool. Cream Snow Drift and sugar, add well beaten eggs. Dissolve soda in hot water, add cold chocolate, liquid and dry ingredients. Bake in two layers in moderate oven twenty minutes.

Emily's White Cake

Half cup Snow Drift, one and one-half cups sugar, three cups of flour, three teaspoons of baking powder, one teaspoon salt, one cup milk or water, one teaspoon orange extract, whites of three eggs. Cream Snow Drift and sugar. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with liquid. Add orange extract, beat mixture thoroughly and last fold in stiffly beaten whites of eggs. Flour layer cake tins, pour in cake mixture and bake in quick oven for twenty minutes.

The gas range is valued at $112 and is an Acorn gas range, semi-enamel finish, equipped with a later heat regulators. A stove of the type is on display at the Wilson-Bell store.

All prizes to be awarded have been generously donated by Glendale merchants.

At the close of the bazaar at 10:30 o'clock Friday night, the cakes will be auctioned off to add to the proceeds of the affair.

Other booths will be for cooked food, hot dogs, coffee, ice cream, salad and punch. There will also be a large fancy work booth.

Special announcement has been made of Sallie Hardscrabble's general store, which announces a smashing sale for the bazaar. Sallie and her corps of clerks will be on hand all day and will endeavor to satisfy the wants of all shoppers.

Everything from shoe strings to coal will be on sale at greatly reduced prices.

Fashion Center Will Hold Big Dress Sale

The early spring attraction at the Fashion Center in the Monarch building on South Brand boulevard is to be the big dress sale that starts Thursday morning and continues until a tempting stock of 300 dresses is exhausted.

Dresses for evening, dinner, street and house wear are included in the stock and Glendale women are to have an opportunity to buy high-priced dresses at a greatly reduced figure.

TRY THIS MORE ECONOMICAL WAY OF WASHING

Have you ever considered what it costs to have your washing done at home? Add the cost of meals, carfare, soap, supplies and gas to what you pay your laundress—and the total is surprising.

Women who are now using our modern laundry service find it a great deal more saving, besides doing away with the muss and bother of home laundry work.

Will Make Records of Glendale Monologues

Harry A. James, of 1558 East Wilson avenue, noted as a monologue entertainer, leaves Friday, February 23, for Richmond, Ind., the home of one of the biggest phonograph companies, where he will transcribe a half-dozen of his most popular numbers on to records.

Among the numbers he will preserve and popularize in this manner will be his series on English humor, of which "The Englishman at the Ball Game" is perhaps as well known to Glendaleans as any.

Mr. James states that upon return home he will present another of his "All Glendale" nights from the Times radio station, Los Angeles. The last such program, the night of January 31, was enjoyed all over the world. The American consul in a city in the interior of India, 4800 miles away, "listened in," as did a ship 3,500 miles out on the Pacific, steaming home from China; and practically every city in the United States was Glendale's guest over the "air line" that night.

PREPARING SILK

Silkworms are killed by live steam, the cocoons then carefully dried in lots for several months before the silk can be reeled and prepared for export.

Hard-coal-burning furnaces may be converted into powdered-coal burners with very little expense, it is said.

BIRTHDAY DANCE TO AID BENEFIT

Sale of Tickets to Increase Funds in Treasury of Postal Clerks

Everything is all ready for the Washington birthday dance that is to be held tonight in the auditorium of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce by the postal clerks of the local office, with the hall beautifully decorated in the national colors and every member of each of the committees ready to welcome the guests and to look after their comfort in every detail.

The sale of tickets for the affair has been most encouraging to those who are promoting it, and the receipts that have already been taken in and those that will be taken at the door tonight will materially swell the funds for the sick benefit fund of the local branch of the postal clerks' association, the object for which the dance is being given.

Visitors Coming

Letters that have been received by the Glendale postal clerks indicate that large delegations of postoffice employees will be present from Los Angeles, Pasadena and other adjacent cities, and the visitors, together with the Glendale guests at the dance, promise to bring out one of the largest and most representative gatherings of any affair of the kind during the present season.

The holiday that follows the dance will afford those who attend it ample opportunity to rest after their strenuous efforts as votaries at the shrine of Terpsichore, and Kelly's Shrine orchestra has picked out the latest musical numbers that are guaranteed to keep everyone at the dance active from the first number until "Home, Sweet Home" rings out on the morning air.

EVANGELIST DIES AFTER OPERATION

Mrs. J. H. LeGrande's Death Comes as Shock to Glendale Friends

Glendale church people who became acquainted with Mrs. John H. LeGrande, during the LeGrande-Howe evangelistic meetings last summer at the Central Christian church, will be shocked to learn of her death, which occurred yesterday, Tuesday, February 20, 1923, after an operation in an Alhambra hospital.

Funeral services are to be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Central Christian church in Glendale. Officiating will be Rev. C. A. Cole, assisted by Rev. C. R. Hudson, Rev. R. W. Abmeyer of Pasadena, Rev. O. C. Moomaw of Alhambra; Rev. K. F. Vanecko of Redondo. Burial will take place in the Hollywood cemetery.

Loved by Many

Upon receiving news of Mrs. LeGrande's death Rev. Cole said: "Rev. and Mrs. LeGrande had held meetings in a large number of Southern California communities with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howe as assistants. The demands for their services were far more than they could fill among the churches of the southwest. Mrs. LeGrande endeavored herself to those who heard her while here by her simple, forceful and devotional way of singing the gospel songs and by her winsome and earnest manner of Christian work."

"Our Neighbors in the Southwest," will be the interesting topic of the illustrated lecture, at the Tropico Presbyterian church tonight. Dr. Winnard will present about seventy slides showing the work of the missions among the Mexicans. There will be one more lecture in the series which has featured the Wednesday evening meetings for the past two months.

Missionary Work in Mexico to Be Shown

Speaker Will Tell of Tour of Mission Field

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Tropico Presbyterian church will hold its regular meeting and election at the church on Thursday, Luncheon at 12:30 o'clock. Business meeting after luncheon. At 2:30 o'clock Mrs. W. H. Weller, who has recently returned from an inspection of all the missions in the foreign field, will be the interesting speaker.

SHOOT HIS BROTHER
LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—When John Karbonick saw a man moving in the darkness of the kitchen of the house where he lives in San Pedro early today, he fired. Then he turned on a light and found he had shot his brother, William Karbonick, aged 40, who lives in the same house.

HEIRESSSES TO $750,000 UNCONCERNED OVER UNEQUAL SPLIT

Through the curious provisions of their grandmother's will one of these two young women will receive an income of about $28,000 a year and the other $2000 from an Italian legacy of approximately three-quarters of a million dollars—and constantly increasing. There are no signs of a disagreement between the sisters over the unequal distribution of the money.

French Expel German Officials From Rhine

ESSEN, Feb. 21.—Secrets of German customs officials who had refused to work under French supervision were ordered expelled from the Rhineland today by the Rhineland commission, sitting at Coblenz. French troops were ordered to meet any disorders arising over the deportations.

Disorders throughout the Ruhr have been quelled somewhat by inclement weather which is keeping German strikers indoors. A cold wave, accompanied by snow, has swept the district.

Salvation Army Casts Friend's Ashes on Sea

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—Fulfilling the farewell request of a man, whom he had never seen or heard of, Brigadier-General C. R. Boyd of the Los Angeles branch of the Salvation army, today cast the ashes of John Maier, aged 72, upon the waves of the Pacific ocean.

A little group of Salvationists gathered at the beach to perform the last rites for a mystery friend whose name was unknown to them until a faded will revealed that he had made the Salvation army the chief beneficiary of his $7,000 estate and named Brigadier Boyd as the executor.

Wisconsin Militia Is Abolished by Assembly

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 21.—The assembly voted 65-14 today to abolish the Wisconsin national guard. All rules were suspended and the bill rushed to the senate. House socialists voted as a bloc to abolish.

Assemblyman Frank Prescott and F. J. Peterson of Milwaukee, strove vainly to block the action. Prescott denounced the bill as "socialist propaganda."

Postpone Sentence on Slayer of Physician

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Supreme Court Justice Crosey announced he had postponed sentencing Mrs. Lillian S. Raizen until February 27. A large crowd of curious spectators collected in the corridors to learn what sentence would be imposed upon Mrs. Raizen, who was convicted Sunday of murder in the second degree for the shooting of Abraham Glitske, Brooklyn physician. Police had great difficulty in handling the crowd. Mrs. Raizen, in a state bordering on collapse, was almost carried from the patrol wagon. She was in the custody of two matrons.

Railroad Labor Board Helpless, Says Gompers

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—No decision of the United States supreme court can improve or revise the Esch-Cummins transportation act, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared in commenting upon the court's ruling in the Pennsylvania railroad injunction case, where the court upheld the railroad labor board and the conventions of organized labor.

"Nevertheless," Gompers said, "the supreme court pursued the only logical course in upholding the condemnation of the Pennsylvania railroad for its efforts in dealing with questions of wages and working conditions."

"However, so far as the railroad labor board is concerned, it is as helpless now as before. It is just as ineffective."

Slayer Wants to Look Handsome at Execution

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—Jimmy Smith spent today in a county jail cell taking pains so he would be a good looking corpse after Friday. The handsome young bandit is to be hanged for murdering a crippled cigar store clerk. With his silk shirt flung open at the throat, he looked and re-sticked his onion-skin pompadour into place and held it there with a rubber band. By Friday it will lay back just right. The pompadour was one of the joys of Smith's life.

"I'm doing as well as could be expected," he grinned when asked as to his welfare.

Head of Labor Board Approves Court Rule

CHICAGO, Feb. 21.—The supreme court decision dissolving the injunction obtained by the Pennsylvania railroad against the United States railroad labor board, was characterized by Ben W. Hooper, chairman of the board, as "a long step forward in the industrial peace on the railroads."

The rights granted the Pennsylvania shop workers, through the court's decision, also apparently will be extended to a similar case pending before the court, and on which the railway labor board has refused to act, affecting similar rights of railway clerks, Mr. Hooper said.

"The contention of the employees was in harmony with the spirit of our republican institutions," Mr. Hooper said. "Upholding the principle of the majority rule in organized labor will greatly conduce to supremacy of law over force in adjusting industrial controversies."
